Re: Searchels.com

Dear Mr. Seline:

This firm represents Grouper, Inc.

We write to demand that you immediately discontinue your practice of making available on Searchels.com videos from Grouper.com.

By streaming content posted on Grouper.com through your own media player, you are substantially altering the user experience. Among other things, you have obscured and therefore denigrated the Grouper.com user experience. For example, your site obscures the "Send to Friends" and "Save to Favorites" buttons found on Grouper.com. More importantly, you have effectively stripped away Grouper's extensive copyright protection system, including the "Flag as Inappropriate" button and the link that appears on every single page of the Grouper website to allow copyright owners to report allegedly infringing material, in accordance with the terms of the Digital Millennium Copyright Act. Indeed, it does not appear that your site even complies with the DMCA. Your reformatting of content from the Grouper.com website also blocks advertisements from Grouper's website.

Your conduct violates federal and state law, including section 12 of Grouper's Terms of Service, and constitutes misappropriation and an unfair trade practice. By prominently featuring Grouper on your site and in your instructional videos, your site also falsely suggests sponsorship, affiliation and endorsement by or with Grouper.com, in violation of the federal Lanham Act.

We demand that you discontinue your practices immediately. Please confirm that you have done so in writing or by email by Monday, March 19, 2007.

This letter does not constitute a complete statement of Grouper's rights or available remedies.

Very truly yours,
